

Life in Lockdown for a new Business

April 2021

Working with East Grinstead Museum, we have a series of Life in Lockdown studies on our website that capture the pandemic experience and issues from the point of view of Businesses, Individuals, and Community Groups.

Business life in lockdown

51 Degree Design began during the first lockdown, due to losing my job. Initially it was a side-line, and this was moved forward. There are a lot of people who have needed to move their side-line to become their principal income due to the pandemic.

The business has continued to grow, the first month was slow but it has increased month-by-month. When lockdown began my wife, and I were preparing a ‘downsize’ house move. This meant we were both working from home and supporting our son’s home schooling, so it was a little busy. But once we got into the rhythm of things, it was ok and not too stressful.

The work began to come in from social media - maybe someone needed a logo, or a website built. I judge my success by how successful the business is I have supported.

During COVID-19 we have been able to ‘press pause’ if needed but really there has not been too much change as no family member has been affected by COVID-19.

Life in Lockdown

Anyone who knows me knows I am a keen exerciser. During the first lockdown, and the amazing weather we had then I have continued to exercise. In fact, it became easier as I was not having to commute and fit in exercise. As a family we have been exercising and walking the dog daily so am actually much fitter.

I have found that 'working for myself' I am able to develop my own routine to incorporate exercise. I am training for a World Record - Lands End to John O'Groats cycle run. I have also been running and chasing my own personal best. We have also purchased extra equipment for the garage. We are a very motivational house, so exercise is not hard.

August 2020 onwards there has not been any change to my motivation for my business I may not know what work I have 2 weeks apart but I'm enjoying it.

The one thing that lockdowns has made a little challenging personally is ensuring that the weekends and weekdays do not merge together. The range of projects and interests ensure this does not occur. Another change is how often the dog has gone out for a walk.

But I have a lot of projects and have variety of things to do which keeps me energised and motivated. For me, 51 Degrees ensures I have a good 'work life balance', which I am really positive about and am able to look after those closest to me and do the things that motivates me.

Life in Lockdown

East Grinstead Museum is to document life in lockdown, in our town. We are keen to capture diverse experiences - sad or joyful - and to reflect East Grinstead's diversity. Contributions are welcomed from people of all ages, backgrounds, and abilities.

Using these collected items, the museum plans to create an exhibition documenting how COVID-19 impacted life in East Grinstead and the surrounding villages.
